Medtran is a program of Peninsula Agency on Aging (PAA) which provides non-emergency medical transportation for non-Medicaid seniors aged 60 years and over. Medtran coordinates reliable community volunteers using their own vehicles to transport the elderly to and from scheduled appointments.

Many area seniors have no means of transportation and therefore do not have access to proper medical care. Public transportation is rarely accessible for most seniors, and taxis are too expensive when living on a fixed income. Can you or someone you know spare a couple of hours to help improve a senior citizen's quality of life? Become a volunteer driver with Medtran today.
